Millions fall silent for key workers

THE nation held a minute's silence yesterday to honour those who have lost their lives in the fight against coronavirus.

The silence was held following a campaign from Unison, the Royal College of Midwives and the Royal College of Nursing.

People across the UK paused for a minute in tribute to the sacrifice made by those in roles ranging from doctors and nurses to carers, cleaners, porters and bus drivers.

Prime Minister Boris Johnson, who has just returned to work this week after recovering from Covid-19, joined the commemoration.

It comes as the NHS is preparing to resume key non-coronavirus services, including the most urgent cancer care, over fears thousands of patients could be having their illnesses made worse or missed altogether.

Eight held over knife murder

EIGHT people have been arrested over the knife murder of a man at a shopping centre in the West Midlands.

The 31-year-old victim was named as Karl Gallagher, who died at Smethwick's West Cross Shopping Centre after the attack on Sunday.

Four men, aged between 19 and 21, are being held on suspicion of murder, West Midlands Police said.

Three others – aged 20, 21 and 22 – have been arrested on suspicion of assisting an offender.

Another man, 24, is being held on suspicion of obstructing police.

'HE'S NOT DEAD...HE'S JUST CRAPPING HIMSELF'

TERRIFIED tyrant Kim Jong Un is NOT dead – he's just hiding from the Chinese death plague.

That's the view of experts who have played down claims the podgy North Korean despot died after botched heart surgery.

Speculation about the rotund dictator was sparked when he missed a key national holiday on April 15.

It was the first time he had missed the anniversary celebrations for his late grandfather, Kim Il Sung, who founded North Korea.

South Korea's Unification Minister, Kim Yeon-chul, said: "It is true that he had never

Terrified Kim hiding in bunker over virus fears, say spooks missed the anniversary since he took power but many anniversary events, including celebrations and a banquet, had been cancelled because of coronavirus concerns."

He said there were at least two instances since mid-January where Kim Jong Un was out of sight for nearly 20 days and added: "I don't think that's particularly unusual given the current (coronavirus) situation."

US President Donald Trump said on Monday he has a good idea how Kim Jong Un is doing and hopes he is fine but would not elaborate.

One North Korea expert, who asked not to be named for fear of reprisals, said: "He's cowering in an air-filtered bunker – terrified of this plague his friends, the Chinese, unleashed on an innocent world."

"He's got so many health issues due to his revolting lifestyle that just a whiff of this virus would kill him stone dead. He's crapping himself."

BEER TO BE RATIONED!

BEER could be RATIONED to just TWO pints per punter after the coronavirus lockdown ends and bars reopen.

Pubs could reopen if landlords served limited booze to customers – and then asked them to go home to help with social distancing measures.

Lockdown adviser Professor Eyal Winter, of Lancaster University, said people were "starving" for pubs – which he described as "an important part of British culture".

Mr Winter, an economist advising politicians on how to ease the coronavirus restrictions, said social distancing would have to be enforced if pubs reopen after being shut since March 23.

One possible method would be to stagger the number of people going into pubs over the course of a day to avoid them getting "very full" at any one point.

Fears

He said those flouting the rules should be fined, amid fears some people would behave unacceptably as soon as lockdown measures cease.

And he said theatres and cinemas could also reopen – but only selling half as many tickets as normal, with gaps in seating and higher prices to cover lower revenue.

Mr Winter said Britain should follow the approach of the Germans, with clear dates and targets on reducing restrictions as the country leaves the lockdown.

He explained: "One of the most important things is to have a programme to say, 'in two weeks we will do such and such...'"

"You need to make the rules crystal clear and explain the rationale behind each one of them."

On Saturday, another Government adviser told BBC Radio 4's Today programme that beer gardens should be allowed to reopen to drinkers.

"If it is a sunny weekend afternoon and the pub has a garden and the landlords are prepared to accept responsibility for not overcrowding the garden, I see no particular reason why it should not reopen," said Professor Robert Dingwall.

G'day mate... back on Bondi, fair dinkum!

SYDNEY'S iconic Bondi Beach has reopened for surfers and swimmers, five weeks after it was closed over the coronavirus pandemic.

Waverley Council reopened Bondi, Bronte and Tamarama beaches, with COVID-19 social distancing rules still in place. The beaches will be open to the public between 7am and 5pm on weekdays, but will shut at the weekends.

People will only be able to take a dip in the water – with sunbathing, walking and jogging on the beach not allowed.

The beaches were closed as Australia's coronavirus restrictions came into force last month and large crowds gathered at the popular destinations, breaking social distancing rules.

The move to ease restrictions comes as Australia's Health Minister Greg Hunt announced just one new case of community transmission of COVID-19 had been recorded in the country in the past 24 hours.

BUSTY BEAUTY: Alice in steamy film role and (left) in telly drama

We could not agree more, Alice!

BELGRAVIA star Alice Eve says she is quite happy to strip off for roles... as it is "part of the job".

The actress, 38, spoke about why she has no problem showing her "flesh".

The ITV drama, set in Victorian London, ended last weekend – with five million viewers tuning in for the finale.

Alice played Susan in the period drama, shocking audiences after she had an affair with a married man and got pregnant.

Weird

Despite wearing a tight corset and big dresses for Belgravia, she said: "I don't have any aversion to flesh, or showing it."

"I think if you've got flesh, then it should be shown."

"Besides, you limit yourself if you are against all that, because it's part of the job really. But it can be a bit weird sometimes."

Alice said she was typically cast in roles that objectify women while being shown through the lens of a man, which is not how she feels about herself.

But she added: "As an actor, you can't be attached to your physicality."

Alice famously went topless for a bedroom scene in the 2009 flick Crossing Over.

She is the daughter of Brit stars Trevor Eve and Sharon Maughan.

EARN £26K... TESTING SEX TOYS!

A SEX toy company is looking for workers to test their products while cooped up in lockdown.

Dildo makers Ricky are on the lookout for male and female sex toy testers to review their products.

Responsibilities for the £26K role include analysing the packaging, instructions and usability of products, testing them for maximum pleasure and sense of comfort, and also contributing ideas for new products.

"We're looking for men and women who get excited about sex toys," says Ricky founder Tom Thurlow.

"It is our goal to make orgasms exceptional and we need the right sex toy testers to enforce that."

'Patient zero' nightmare of US Army girl

A US Army reservist and mum-of-two has become the target of conspiracy theorists, who have falsely accused her of starting the global pandemic.

Maatje Benassi says the bogus claim she is the COVID-19 'patient zero' has gone viral on social media in China – leaving her fearing for her life.

"It's like waking up from a bad dream going into a nightmare day after day," said Benassi, who works at Fort Belvoir, Virginia.

"Every time you're going to Google my name, it will pop up as patient zero."

Conspiracy theorists singled out Benassi, who was just one of hundreds of athletes in Wuhan – the centre of the coronavirus outbreak – in October, competing in the Military World Games.

Drug cartels in lockdown killing spree

MEXICO'S murder rate has jumped to its highest level in nearly two years as violent drug cartels have taken advantage of coronavirus lockdowns, according to a report.

The number of homicides climbed last month to 3,000, the most since July 2018.

The bloodshed has overshadowed Mexico's coronavirus death toll, which has reached 1,351 since the outbreak began in February, according to figures from Johns Hopkins University.

President Andres Manuel Lopez Obrador acknowledged last week that the virus was under better control than violence from cartels.

"We are taking care of the coronavirus, but unfortunately we still have the problem with the murders," Obrador said.

It's a dog's strife as pet pug gets bug

A PUG called Winston became the first dog in the United States to test positive for the coronavirus.

Winston, who belongs to a family in Chapel Hill, North Carolina, was tested as part of a study at Duke University after his owners fell ill with the virus.

Dr Chris Woods, the head of the Duke study, said he believes it's the first known positive canine case in the country.

The owner of the dog, Heather McLean, said Winston was coughing and sneezing – and one day didn't even want to eat breakfast.

"And if you know pugs, you know they love to eat," she said. "So that seemed very unusual."

Winston recovered after a few days.

COVID 19:

PORN LEGEND JESSICA DRAKE REVEALS CORONAVIRUS EFFECT ON GRUMBLE TRADE

IT'S ALL COME TO A SCREECHING HALT... MY WHOLE YEAR IS CANCELLED!

It was supposed to be a big year for Jessica Drake.

The popular porn performer, director and sex educator had several studio scenes, dancing gigs, workshops and speaking engagements lined up.

Then the coronavirus hit North America and turned her life, the porn industry and the entire world upside down.

"It's all come to a screeching halt," Jessica said. "Basically, my whole year is cancelled."

Now she spends her days in self-isolation at her home in California – and for someone whose job is based around having sex with others, it's been a particularly challenging period.

"On any given day, my emotions range from anxious, to panicky, to resolute and focused and occasionally even optimistic," she said.

Thrusting

"It's been a complete upheaval in my life and in the lives of everyone I know in the industry."

All porn studio productions in the US were halted on March 18, leaving thousands of performers out of a job for now – even as porn consumption skyrockets among quarantined viewers around the world.

Like Jessica, performers have been told to stay home and avoid shooting scenes with anyone except people in their household, according to guidelines released by the Free Speech Coalition, the porn industry's trade association in the US.

without studio work, thrusting them into the make-or-break world of selling their own content online – often while working alone at home.

But while porn production has gotten harder, digital traffic has gone way up.

More people are watching porn online than before the lockdown, according to data from several adult sites.

The largest free site, Pornhub, has seen a 10-17 per cent spike in average daily traffic since lockdowns swept the world in mid-March, along with a 30% boom in performers uploading their own home-made content.

Subscription sites are also seeing a surge in traffic.

OnlyFans, a paid service for content that's too racy for Instagram, has reported a spike in new model and fan sign-ups, particularly as adult performers like Jessica look for ways to keep working through the pandemic.

Users pay a monthly subscription fee to each model on the site in exchange for photos, videos or private messages.

Jessica says she tries to go on OnlyFans and Instagram Live once a day because it means a lot to her followers.

And she says she's a "unique case" because she's built a brand for herself over nearly two decades of shooting studio porn.

She also has job security as a contract performer for Wicked Pictures, one of the larger porn studios based in California.

TRUMPER TROUBLE: Dr Swan

THAT secret fart really could be "silent but deadly" – because medics have warned that the Chinese death plague could be spread by FLATULENCE!

Top medic Dr. Norman Swan was asked on Aussie TV whether botchy burps can carry the deadly illness airborne and infect others.

And the doc confirmed that WAS possible.

He even issued a warning that no one should be "bare-bottom farting" near each other, since particles of faeces can be set adrift within flatulence and spread COVID-19.

"Luckily, we wear a mask, which covers our farts all the time," Dr Swan said, referring to pants, shorts, dresses, underwear and other garments.

"I think that what we should do in terms of social distancing and being safe is that... you don't fart close to other people, and that you don't fart with your bottom bare."

When pressed on the subject, he repeated: "A policy on the entire population should be, don't fart close to other people and don't fart with your bottom bare." Emergency room medic Dr Andy Tagg agreed and proposed that people keep their pants ON.

He added that pants and underwear should be considered part of a person's personal protective equipment [PPE].

WORLD LOCKED DOWN

LITTLE MIX JADE: I'M MISSING THE COCK IN LOCKDOWN!

POP stunner Jade Thirlwall is missing COCK most of all while in lockdown.

The Little Mix star has been self-isolating with two of her friends during the coronavirus pandemic and has revealed the one thing she's missing about regular life is having sex.

Jade made the confession after revealing she made a PIE in the shape of a penis for her and her pals to munch on.

Jade said she had chosen the design because she wanted to create a pie sculpture of the thing she is missing most.

Speaking to BBC Radio One's Scott Mills and Chris Stark, she said: "I love cooking a pie. It's because it's dead easy, I just buy the ready to roll."

And when complimented by Scott on her penis pie, she added: "Thanks guys, really appreciate that."

"I'm here alone in the flat with two friends and we all decided to put what we were missing on the pie."

By SIMON DEAN

simon@sundaysport.co.uk

Despite missing male genitals in her fragrant popstar vagina, Jade said last year she wasn't "arsed" about finding a man to settle down with after splitting from rocker Jed Elliott in August.

Speaking about her hopes for 2020, she said: "I'm looking forward to showing the world more of the things that I'm passionate about."

"Me and the girls have got some really exciting projects coming up!"

Hectic

"Maybe I'll find a man by then, but either way I'm not arsed."

Jade previously explained that she and Jed had decided to split due to their hectic work schedules.

A source close to the duo insisted Jade and Jed would remain good friends, but that their relationship had simply "run its course".

The insider said at the time of their split: "Jade and

DIRTY COOKER: Jade (with Jed prior to split) baked a penis pie

Jed have decided to end the relationship. There is honestly no big drama, it has just sadly run its course.

"They spent so much time apart, as Jed is on tour constantly in the USA with his band The Struts and obviously Jade is super busy with Little Mix promo – and about to start a massive LM5 Tour."

"The split is amicable and they remain mates."

Virus pushes death toll to a record high

A RISING number of deaths linked to coronavirus in care homes in England and Wales has pushed the overall numbers dying to a record high.

Office for National Statistics data showed there were 2,000 coronavirus care home deaths in the week ending April 17 – double that of the previous week – and they will rise again.

The total number dying in that week topped 22,000 – the highest since records began in 1993 and double the deaths normally expected at this time of the year.

At the weekend hospital deaths linked to coronavirus went over 20,000, although the numbers appear to have peaked, but care home deaths are rising.

Captain Tom's to get full RAF flypast salute

CAPTAIN Tom Moore's 100th birthday will be marked by an RAF flypast, Transport Secretary Grant Shapps has announced.

The Cabinet minister wrote on Twitter that the aerial salute was "meant to be a surprise for Tom", but confirmed it would be happening after it emerged his department rejected an earlier plan for a flypast organised by a Spitfire restoration company.

Captain Tom has raised £29 million for the NHS by walking laps of his garden ahead of his landmark birthday tomorrow.

A flypast involving a Spitfire was blocked by jobsworths as being "non-essential travel".

Now it's emerged that the RAF Battle of Britain Memorial Flight – which is based in Lincolnshire and includes six Spitfires and is "not bound by the same restrictions" – will provide the salute.

McDonald's in tests to prepare for reopenings

THE UK boss of McDonald's has said the restaurant chain is carrying out tests behind closed doors in preparation for reopening sites.

The fast-food chain closed all its diners last month in the face of the coronavirus pandemic.

Rivals such as Burger King and KFC have reopened their first sites for delivery and takeaway over the past week.

CEO Paul Pomroy said it decided to close its restaurants for "the safety of our people and customers" but has recently begun looking at a "potential and limited reopening".

Mr Pomroy said the business is "carrying out some operational tests to explore what our reopening might look like" to ensure sites are opened "when the time is right".

DOCS STRIP OVER PPE SHORTAGE

(And, for once, the Lefties can't blame this on Boris)

A GROUP of German doctors have posted naked selfies to draw attention to the shortage of protective equipment and clothing for healthcare workers.

The group Blanke Bedenken stripped to inform Germany's health ministers that their calls over several months for more protective gear weren't heard.

They said "when we run out of what little we have, we look like this" – suggesting that going to work without PPE in the crisis is like being naked.

One GP said: "The nudity is a symbol of how vulnerable we are without protection."

Members of the group said they felt at risk from coronavirus and doctors have repeatedly asked for more kit since the first cases of the bug in Germany in January.

Firms producing the equipment increased the amount but still didn't meet demands.

Filter masks, goggles, gloves and aprons were frequently requested by medical practices, clinics and care homes – but they say their needs have barely been met.

The German action makes a mockery of UK leftists' claim that it's all the Tories fault that our medics don't have enough protective equipment.

Laura: I will never be OK over Caroline

LOVE Island host Laura Whitmore has revealed she will "never be OK" with Caroline Flack's death.

The 34-year-old (above) replaced Flack as the presenter of the hit ITV2 reality show, just weeks before she took her own life aged 40.

Laura said: "It'll never be OK and it'll never be right. She was so strong-willed and feisty and I remember thinking, 'God, I wish I could be as strong as her'."

"I felt like if people said things, it wouldn't bother her. But obviously it did because everyone is human."

"I don't want to speculate reasons because nobody will ever know. But it did frighten me."

Laura took over as Love Island host in December after Flack stood down following an assault charge.

COVID boost for groceries

ONLINE grocery sales are expected to grow by around a third during 2020, due to the "seismic impact" that COVID-19 is having on people's shopping habits.

The online grocery market is forecast to reach around £16.8 billion, up from £12.7bn in 2019, market research agency Mintel said.

The big jump follows four years in a row of slowing growth, after it fell to an historic low of 2.9% last year.

POSH BRITISH MOVIE INSTITUTE SCREENS SERIES OF FILM BUFFS' FILTH FEST!

By GRACE HOOPER

THE posh British Film Institute is to blow the wigs off its chin-stroking movie bores by screening a season of... FILTH!

The BFI has announced details of its season Female Desire on Screen – a collection of films and events running on BFI Player and BFI YouTube.

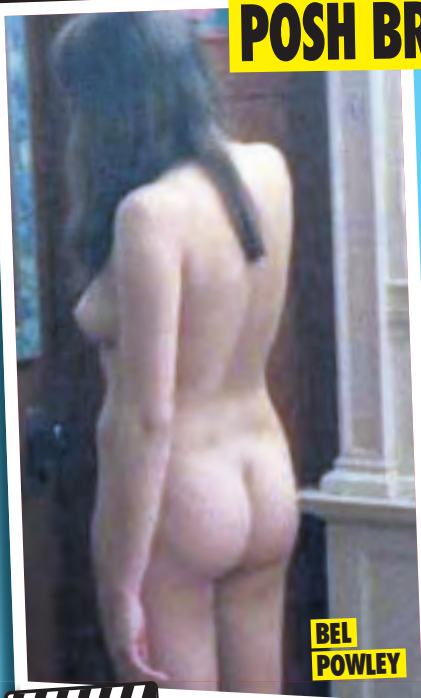

According to the blurb for the event: "Female Desire on Screen will seek to flip the switch on a century of the male gaze and find space for women's own lust and sexual expression in film."

Which is a posh way of saying – girly filth this way.

Among movies being showcased are 1967's Belle De Jour, starring sexy Catherine Deneuve, Jane Campion's lusty 2003 flick In The Cut, lesbo love story Bound from 1996 and the super-filthy 1973 movie Immoral Tales.

The series will also show the 1999 movie Romance, starring real-life porn hunk Rocco Siffredi.

One BFI stalwart said: "It's blue movies for Guardian readers. But don't be alarmed, there's plenty of teat, arse and minge. Phwoar!"

Affairs site's boom since coronavirus

LOVECHEATS' website Ashley Madison has seen a huge surge in memberships since the coronavirus quarantine started.

The site is adding 17,000 new members a day during the COVID pandemic, compared to 15,500 new members a day in 2019.

A spokesman said: "More than 80% of women who use Ashley Madison choose to have an affair because they don't want to exit their relationship."

"They're in love with their husband, but there's an element that's missing. They come to the site to find that element, and they say that finding it helps them become better wives and lovers."

"They tell us it helps them find balance in their lives."

"We've spoken to members, and they're saying they're using the site as a release valve for the tension that's built up at home during the pandemic."

"They're looking to have needs met that aren't being met right now at home."

Vids wanted for UK lockdown project

THE British Film Institute National Archive has launched a campaign asking the public to help document the UK's response to the coronavirus pandemic.

The 'Britain on Lockdown' project aims to gather online videos that best represent how we reacted to the outbreak.

Organisers listed examples such as Joe Wicks' online fitness classes, Prime Minister Boris Johnson's video addresses to the country and the national outpourings of gratitude for the weekly 'Clap for Carers' events.

Users can submit vids online and the project will create an archive that "reflects the public mood as it ebbed and flowed during the crisis".

Bond star's scary night with Queen

ROSAMUND Pike has revealed the nerves she felt when she met the Queen at the royal premiere of Die Another Day and said she practised her curtsy beforehand.

The actress (above) met the monarch after she played Miranda Frost in the 2002 Bond film opposite Pierce Brosnan.

She said: "There were so many things that could go wrong in terms of the correct way to behave."

"So I practised my curtsy, saying ma'am, and when to say 'Your Royal Highness' or 'Your Majesty'."

"I have a wonderful, treasured photo of myself, Madonna and the Queen."

"I am sort of mid-curtsy looking slightly anxious, but I was only 21 and it was a very big night for me."

Pike will lend her voice to the royal train, named the Duchess of Loughborough, in a special episode of Thomas & Friends to mark the 75th anniversary of Thomas The Tank Engine.

Spielberg was a producer on the beloved children's movie and was joined for a virtual hangout by stars including Josh Brolin, Sean Astin, Corey Feldman, Jeff Cohen, Ke Huy Quan, Kerri Green and Martha Plimpton.

Spielberg said several ideas had been floated for a sequel - but none were considered good enough to put into production.

He explained: "The problem is the bar that all of you raised on this genre."

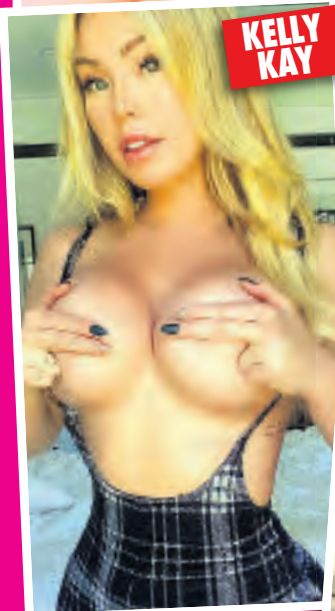

"I don't think we've really successfully been able to find an idea that is better than The Goonies that we all made in the eighties."

JAILBIRD WHOSE BUM TRICK SHOCKED BORIS

SURPRISE: An X-ray body scan image shows drugs

JAILED: Bowler (right) and (above) Johnson

A PRISONER who stunned the Prime Minister by trying to smuggle drugs into jail inside a Kinder Egg stuffed up his arse has had more time added to his sentence.

When Boris Johnson was shown body scan images of packages hidden up inmates' bottoms last summer he looked taken aback and said: "You're joking."

One of the images had been taken two months earlier when Zachary Bowler, 27, was caged for beating his girlfriend up with a cricket bat.

He was not identified at the time but has now been named in court where a judge ordered

By JUSTIN DUNN
news@sundaysport.co.uk

him to spend more time behind bars.

Leeds Crown Court heard warders spotted an "oval package" inside Bowler's body when he was scanned as he was booked into HMP Leeds.

Prosecutor Stephen Welch said Bowler was placed in an isolation cell and then "asked to retrieve the item".

Bowler eventually handed over a Kinder Egg which contained 10 buprenorphine tablets.

The Class C drug is more commonly known as subutex and is often prescribed to addicts going through detox.

Bowler, from Boston Spa in West Yorks, admitted hiding the Kinder Egg inside his body and pleaded guilty to conveying a list A article into prison.

He was handed a 14-week sentence, to be added to his current two-and-a-half year sentence.

Last summer when Boris was shown the image as an example of the smuggling methods used by lags, he added: "A Kinder Egg? Is that inside the...?"

The PM was visiting the prison when, according to its latest inspection, it was one of the most overcrowded in the UK and where in 2017 the majority of inmates said getting drugs was "easy".

Though they were no longer a couple, they stayed in touch. Both were arrested in 1999 and charged with

"He would always say, 'No one understands me. No one gets me.' He was very emotional at times."

"We would hit the strip club, then after-hours clubs. We were having a blast."

Dad goes ape over gorilla burglar

A MAN wearing a gorilla costume terrified a six-year-old girl when he mistakenly entered the wrong home, police say.

Richard Muzick, 31, strolled through the back gate of the property while sporting the primate outfit on Sunday afternoon.

He was then quickly challenged by a startled dad in the back yard, according to police in Mount Juliet, Tennessee.

When confronted by the man, Muzick fled in full gorilla gear but was found by officers nearby.

The furry trespasser was then handcuffed and told cops he thought he had been at someone else's house.

He was arrested and has since been charged with aggravated burglary.

Freed inmate is back inside in 40 minutes

AN inmate who was freed from jail because of the coronavirus was back behind bars just 40 MINUTES later!

Rocky Lee Music (above), 32, walked out of the prison at around 8pm on Sunday.

Before 9pm, he had allegedly carjacked a motorist and was hauled off back to the Santa Rita nick in Dublin, California.

The jail has seen 16 inmates test positive for COVID-19, the local police chief reported.

Another lag, Owen Aguilar, 27, of Selma in central California, was charged with setting nine fires less than a week after his release from another jail, in Fresno.

Thousands of inmates have been released from jails throughout California under an emergency order by the state.

The move aimed to combat the potential spread of the virus within packed lock-ups.

The judicial order is expected to continue for 90 days after a statewide stay-at-home order is lifted.

While officials say it is a limited and proper approach to dealing with COVID-19, others have concerns that dangerous people are being allowed back on the streets.

Pack of pigs kill and eat boy, aged 4

A FOUR-year-old boy was killed and partially eaten by wild pigs roaming the street near his home.

The parents of the boy, named locally as Harshavardhan, were looking for him after he'd gone missing and came upon at the gruesome scene shortly after police had found the body.

The local police chief told reporters: "The animals partially ate the body of the boy."

Locals in Hyderabad, India, had earlier been complaining about officials refusing to remove the pigs from the neighbourhood, where the boy's family lived in huts.

CHAMBER OF HORRORS

When cops investigated the abduction and slaughter of a pretty university student, the trail led to evil James Dean Worley. But when they swooped on his home, not only did they find a killer, they also discovered a serial abductor's blood-stained dungeon, suggesting many more victims...

SUFFERED: Sierah could have choked for 10 mins before dying

HELL HOLE: Cops found Sierah's DNA on rope and duct tape in Worley's barn

OFFICIALLY, James Dean Worley's kill count stands at just one.

He was sentenced for the 2016 abduction and murder of 20-year-old Sierah Joughin, who'd disappeared while riding her bike near her home in Toledo, Ohio.

But when detectives searched Worley's home, not only did they find evidence linking him to Sierah's killing, they also discovered a hidden room specifically designed for "holding a human against their will".

The police reports describe walls smeared with blood.

Grave

Worley had previous, too. He'd served three years in prison for another, eerily similar abduction attempt in the 1990s.

Experts believe he is responsible for countless other disappearances in the area, fingering him as a suspect in as many as 20 unsolved cases.

Poor Sierah, a student at the University of Toledo, was found in a shallow grave in a cornfield, hogtied, with rope. How many other bodies are buried in similar locations?

Only Worley knows. But it's not likely he'll be revealing his secrets any time soon – he's always protested his innocence.

Judge Jeffrey Robinson kept his comments brief after sentencing Worley to death, saying: "If I thought there was a snowball's chance in hell you were innocent, I'd have given you life."

Sierah's uncle, Howard Ice, read a heartbreaking statement from his grieving family shortly after the sentencing.

Choking back tears, he said: "When Sierah went missing, little did we know the harrowing series of events that would unfold. "How did this happen to our family?"

By JUSTIN DUNN
news@sundaysport.co.uk

"It's hard to put into perspective the emotions we've gone through over the past 18 months.

"Our family wanted two things. The first was justice for Sierah. The second was to make this tragedy accountable for future good, to find something that could help law enforcement, give them the upper hand, and sharpen their focus when the next person goes missing.

"From the start we recognised a flaw in Ohio's criminal database system – that there's no centralised location to search for violent offenders.

"James Worley could have been visited by police within hours of Sierah going missing, rather than days. That could have been the difference between her living and dying.

"We can wilt from the grief, or be strong and determined to raise something out of the ashes of misery."

Visibly struggling to compose himself, Howard went on: "Sierah loved Halloween. She loved to dress up as a superhero. She was Batman, she was Superman. She was strong and she was determined.

"In real life, Sierah really was a superhero because she ended up taking down a killer, a killer with a violent past, with the devil in his eyes, someone who had the look of travelling this path many times before. "And in the end our beautiful Sierah won the battle of good versus evil. We believe that her sacrifice has saved other lives which were to come."

Worley, who still lived with his mother at the age of 57, had been described as a "mild-mannered oddball" throughout his life, despite the fact he had a relatively normal upbringing.

Suspicious

One expert described him as being "isolated, both emotionally and physically", which caused him to seek comfort in depravity.

He'd had a string of failed businesses and earned a living repairing engines, but locals had suspicions about him.

Lisa Peluso had paid him a visit, with her young daughter in tow, just days before Sierah disappeared.

She had met Worley just once before, in 2015, but says: "I was really shocked he remembered my name. And he looked at my daughter and was like, 'You're 12, aren't you?' Madalynn and I looked at each other and I thought, 'That's weird'.

"I was kind of scared. I had this gut feeling. There was just something about him that made me think he was strange."

If only Lisa – and everyone else in the community – knew about Worley's horrific past.

In 1990, he had pulled alongside 26-year-old Robin Gardner as she cycled and shouted: "Get in the truck or I'm going to kill you!"

Robin, who managed to escape, was forced to relive those fearful moments as part of Worley's trial for Sierah's murder. She bravely told the jury of her getaway as Worley had tried to handcuff her.

She recalled: "The door closed on the passenger side so I slid across the seat and the driver side door was still open.

"I ran into the street and flagged down a passing motorcyclist. I ran up to him and said, 'Please help me – this guy is going to kill me'." Worley had calmly

IN FRIDAY'S

SICK: Worley had warned a therapist that he would bury his next victim

FOUND DEAD: Was Lori Ann Hill another of Worley's victims?

walked over to the biker and said: "Don't listen to her, she's crazy."

He didn't even flee the scene when the police arrived.

Worley was convicted and served less than three years in jail before being released in 1993.

He spent another two years behind bars from 2000 to 2002 after pleading guilty to the illegal manufacture or cultivation of marijuana and having weapons while under disability.

After the abduction attempt, Worley was ordered by a judge to see a therapist.

Learned

With a grim sign of things to come, he'd told the therapist he had "learned from each abduction" and the next one he was "going to bury".

If only his veiled threat had been taken seriously.

Sierah disappeared on July 19, 2016. Later that evening, her bike was found abandoned in a field, surrounded by trampled corn.

Her body wasn't discovered until three days later, despite a frantic manhunt.

There's no way of knowing when Sierah died or how long she was kept in captivity before she was choked to death.

But awful details of her ordeal were revealed by the autopsy.

While there was no evidence of sex assault, coroner Dr Cynthia Beisser described a deep laceration on her forehead, a broken tooth and a hairline fracture at the back of her skull.

Dr Beisser said a yellow foreign object – a dog chew – had been placed in Sierah's mouth attached to a binding that was fastened at the back of her neck.

She concluded the object asphyxiated her, and that the process could have taken as long as 10 agonising minutes.

Sierah had also been dressed in long white socks and an adult nappy. The same nappies were later found in Worley's dungeon.

His motorcycle helmet, meanwhile, was also found at the scene. It was covered in his own blood, suggesting Sierah had fought for her life.

In the end, Worley implicated himself.

When police were going door to door, canvassing people who lived in the area, Worley told them he'd been riding his motorcycle near to where Sierah was last seen and the bike had broken down.

He said he'd pushed it into a field, where he had then mislaid his helmet, screwdriver and sunglasses.

He claimed he'd then stumbled upon a bicycle in the field, telling cops: "My fingerprints would likely be on the bike."

Search warrants for Worley's property were promptly issued – and his lair uncovered.

Creepy

Sierah's DNA was found on rope, duct tape and paper towels inside Worley's creepy barn.

Sheriff's Department's Sgt Matthew Smithmyer wrote at the time: "Worley fits the profile of a serial offender and could potentially have additional unknown victims who could have been kept at the above described location", adding that he knows "based upon knowledge and experience that these types of offenders will often keep trophies".

The jury eventually heard how Worley had viewed sick pornography sites, searching for phrases including 'rape', 'forced', 'hitchhiker', 'helpless', 'stranded' and 'gag'.

And yet, despite the mountain of irrefutable evidence stacked against him, Worley protested his innocence.

He even had family members walking out in disgust after telling the courtroom: "Don't ask me why she wasn't raped. She was a beautiful girl."

Worley was charged with murder and gross abuse of a corpse and was eventually sentenced to death in March 2018.

For Sierah's mum, Sheila Vaculik, the sentencing came as a bittersweet relief.

Paying tribute to her daughter, she said: "This was a soul that embraced life and everything it had to offer.

"It's hard to put into words the feelings I've experienced over the last year and nine months, the hole that will never heal in my heart."

"Sierah's life was worth far more than the 20 years she was able to live. As her mother, I could not be prouder of the person she was."

Vanished

Thoughts have turned to other potential victims.

One link already being investigated is the unsolved murder of Lori Ann Hill, a 14-year-old who vanished from Swanton, Ohio, in 1985.

Her naked body was found four days later in woodland.

Who knows if Lori had also entered Worley's chamber of horrors?

Murderer is 'scared of catching coronavirus inside jail'

BEAST WHO KILLED 80 BEGS FOR FREEDOM

A SERIAL killer locked up for murdering around 80 vulnerable young women asked for parole – because he's scared of catching coronavirus in prison.

But 'Green River Killer' Gary Ridgway has been denied release, as thousands of Washington state prison inmates are told they must stay behind bars during the pandemic.

The Supreme Court of Washington voted 5-4 against releasing prisoners across the state while the Covid-19 crisis rages on.

Victims and the attorney general's office voiced outrage that some of the US's most dangerous criminals could be let out onto the streets.

Ridgway must see out the pandemic from his cell in Washington State Penitentiary in Walla Walla.

Rampant

Thousands of inmates – about two-thirds of the state's prison population – filed a lawsuit claiming that Governor Jay Inslee and the Department of Corrections were not providing safe conditions for prisoners amid the pandemic.

Chief Justice Debra Stephens said the motion was denied because inmates had failed to prove the state's treatment of them amounted to "deliberate indifference" to the risks of catching the deadly virus.

Ridgway, now 70, terrorised South King County in the 1980s.

He went on a rampant killing spree of young vulnerable women – many of them prostitutes, runaways and drug addicts – after picking them up in his truck for sex.

The Navy veteran took many of his victims home and strangled them before dumping their bodies in the Green River in a remote wooded area in Seattle, earning him his grisly nickname.

After evading capture for two decades, he was finally caught in 2001 thanks to advances in DNA technology.

He confessed to 49 murders – but has since bragged the number of victims is closer to 80.

HE'S BACK! JUSTIN DUNN'S ROOM 101

WHAT'S ANNOYING HIM THIS WEEK?

LOTS of speculation at the moment about the whereabouts of tubby North Korean despot Kim Jong-un. Why? I was always under the impression that everyone over there "disappears" eventually.

I NEED a T-shirt emblazoned with the words: "No, not dead yet. Yes, bored witless. And yes, on the way to Bargain Booze."

WILL COVIDIOTS MAKE CONVICTS OF US ALL?

THERE are two sides to the coronavirus debate.

Those who accept that the interminable lockdown is a necessary evil to stop the spread.

And those who insist a can of tinned peaches is an essential food item to be consumed while stopped for a breather during a trek up and down Snowdon.

Notwithstanding my admiration for the humble, syrup-soaked peach, I am very much with the former.

And not least because the latter's actions in testing the isolation waters are allowing an even more quiet mission creep by Big Brother into our lives.

The latest tech being talked about is issuing people with bracelets that track your every move.

Naughty

They beam your location up to GPS satellites in orbit above us and immediately tell the Stasi if we've crept into the back yard for a wee.

If you try to remove them, the rozzers will be told that too. Off to chokey you will go.

Which is ironic, because this technology is already in wide use for those who are considered to be behaving well enough to not be behind bars, but still naughty enough to be constantly monitored.

In Belgium, they're already testing residents wearing bands that vibrate if they come nearer than three metres to another one.

God knows what will happen if "vibrate" doesn't quite get the message across.

But it's probably safe to assume that someone will be suggesting a virtual Chinese burn, followed by an electric shock and, should your transgressions continue, complete amputation of the lower arm.

Of course staying in is a tremendous pain in the arse.

Of course we're all missing the pub, our families, friends and colleagues, our places of devout worship.

But thanks to those who think ignoring the threat of Covid-19 is a goer, it seems we're all going to be convicts now.

It's dead worrying for wildlife too

ONE of the many side effects of the pandemic is what it's doing to wildlife.

Zoos across the planet are seriously considering whether to kill their living attractions – as they no longer have any income to pay for food, never mind staff.

And Congo's gorillas and other primates are also under the cosh.

The BBC's brilliant

new documentary series Primates could be the last for god knows how long, as there are fears the animals will prove vulnerable to the virus.

The ebola epidemic, which killed thousands of humans in other parts of Africa, also killed thousands of chimpanzees.

And there's me getting worked up over a wristband.

Gun nut held after cop-kill Facebook vid

A MAN was arrested after filming himself on social media trying to hunt down a lone police officer to MURDER.

Aaron Swenson, 36 (above), has now been charged with terroristic threats against an officer, evading detention with a vehicle and unlawfully carrying a weapon.

He posted a video on Facebook Live saying he was searching for a cop to "ambush and execute" as he drove through Texarkana in Texas.

Officers saw the live online video feed and figured out Swenson was driving a black Chevrolet truck, and his location.

Swenson said in the video that he just passed a cop on the road and was going back to attack him.

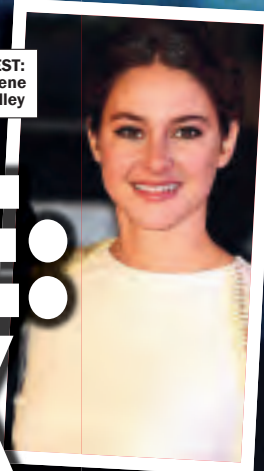

When officers found him, Swenson drove off, and a chase began.

Eventually cops surrounded him but Swenson refused to leave his car – instead he sat in his vehicle and blared music for 25 minutes before exiting and surrendering.

Officers found that Swenson was wearing an armoured-plate vest and had several loaded weapons in his truck.

Woodley

(Certainly looks that way...)

HOLLYWOOD star Shailene Woodley says she LOVES sex – and that's pretty obvious in scenes from her latest movie!

The 28-year-old actress said one of her ex-lovers had helped heal her relationship with sexuality.

She said: "I had a lover that taught me a lot about my own body and my own emotional connection to sex."

"That's when I healed my relationship with sexuality – when this beautiful man came into my life and helped me walk through that journey."

"I love sex."

"I think that it's one of the most underrated, underappreciated, and undervalued experiences that we have."

And the sex certainly looks fun in her new flick Endings, Beginnings.

In one red-hot scene, Shailene's character is seen sitting on a bed and pulling her shirt off to reveal a bra before then leaning over to kiss a male co-star.

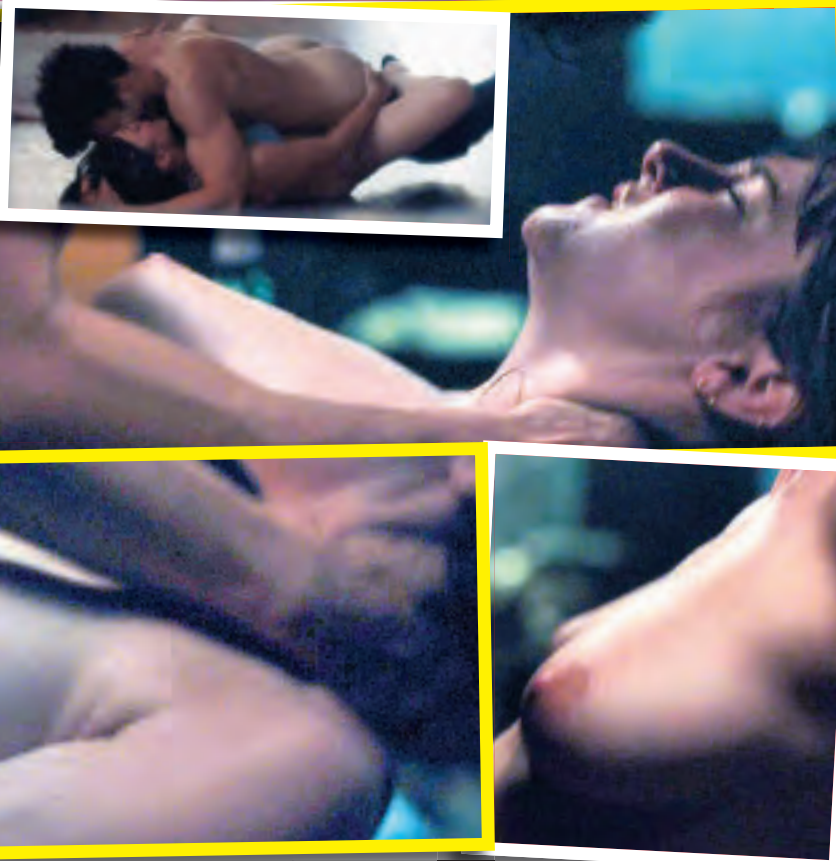

They then lay back on a bed and Shailene takes her bra off, showing her left nipple and then her full breast as her hair covers her right nipple and she has sex with the man, lying under him.

The Divergent and Big Little Lies stunna said: "What improvising an entire movie does is forces you to be truthful in a way that even in your own life you're not truthful."

"Because of that raw, vulnerable state we submitted to performing these characters, I learned a lot about what was and wasn't working in my personal life."

MUSIC MISS PLAYED LAD'S PINK OBOE!

WRONG
SCORE:
George

A LUSTY music teacher struck the wrong note when she blew on an underage student's pink oboe.

Rebekah George was charged with one count of sexual battery and two counts of 'lustful touching'.

Cops say the incident happened at a school for unruly kids.

The Mississippi Youth Challenge Academy is based at Camp Shelby in Mississippi and is part of the National Guard Youth Challenge Program that serves at-risk youths aged 16 to 18.

George was employed as a civilian music teacher at the Academy.

It's believed the student victim was 16.

George, of Petal, Mississippi, turned herself in to cops at Forrest County Sheriff's Office.

The 42-year-old has been booked into the Forrest County Correctional Facility until she can post bail.

A source at the Academy said: "Hell, we done trying to put these young hoodlums on the straight and narrow but they ain't never going to learn their lesson if they done being treated to fellingating and all manner of ungodly antics down here."

"Back in the old days, this harlot would have been tied to a gator pole and left for the skunk moles to do their business. Yessir."

AGONY IS BROUGHT TO YOU IN ASSOCIATION

WELCOME to the World famous Sport Agony page! No other newspaper's agony aunts can offer the level of advice – or experience – than our own Agony Angels! This week AVA DALUSH has been reading through your letters. And here's her advice for you...

I spy on boss's wife as worker gives her one!

Dear Ava,

DURING this lockdown I've been doing some thinking and I'm thinking of speaking out about an affair at work.

I've been furloughed by the domestic appliance factory I work in, where the boss's wife has an office next door to the main building.

In the weeks leading up to the lockdown I noticed that the foreman seemed to be spending more and more time in the office with her – especially when the boss was out.

One day I happened to be in the yard passing the office when I glanced through the half-open door and saw the foreman go up behind the boss's missus and put his hands on her boobs!

He then put his hand up her back, undid her bra and began massaging her tits, which had her moaning and groaning in obvious delight.

I slipped away before they noticed me but since then I watched them every chance I could get from the window of a storeroom overlooking the yard.

For several days

nothing seemed to happen and I'd just about given up when I saw the foreman slipping to the office.

I rushed up to my vantage point which has a clear view through the office window.

She was speaking on the phone when the foreman came up behind her and lifted her tight skirt just enough so I could see her stockings and a small pair of white knickers.

He tugged down her panties and put his fingers straight up her fanny and she began sighing as he plunged them in and out of her.

She bent over the desk and spread her legs as far as she could, then he got out his cock out and filled her.

I was wanking away and I think we all climaxed together – it was so hot!

My problem is that I feel so bad about knowing their guilty secret as I'm sure her husband does not know what's going on.

What should I do?

FG, London

Ava says...

NOTHING – if you want to keep your job. And stop being a Peeping Tom.

Dear Ava,

I'm a divorced mum of 38 and I'm sleeping with a lad aged 18, who lives on the same estate as me.

He chatted me up in the pub one night and I was flattered with the attention of a young stud so I let him fk me back to his flat.

As soon as I saw his nine-inch dick I wanted it in every hole.

At first I sucked him off until he came heavily all over my 38DDs.

Then after a little rest he did me hard and fast from behind.

It was good, honest, animalistic sex – just what I like.

We now have regular sex but he wants me to shag some of his mates as well.

I'm tempted because they are all fit lads. But my friends say he's just using me and that I shouldn't see him anymore.

What do you reckon?

AD, Leeds

Ava says...

FIT lads, you say? Go for it!

I missed sex but new fella comes in handy

Dear Ava,

I'm a woman of 41 and I recently sold a very successful business.

Although I enjoyed every minute of building the firm, I missed out on relationships with men.

But I discovered recently that one of my married female friends has been having an affair with her personal trainer.

He gives her incredible sex, so she says, and in return she gives him little presents.

I laughed at the idea at first but later, while I was alone at home and playing with my sex toys, I thought: "Why don't I get a man in, too?"

Then it struck me I already had one – my handyman. So the next time he was due to call I greeted him more warmly than usual. I was quite blatant and told him that just looking at him made me feel really horny.

He got the message and I led him to my bedroom and we enjoyed a couple of hours of non-stop sex.

The next time he came to visit I gave him a little present – a watch – and he more than repaid me between the sheets.

But now this lockdown means he can't come round to bone me. I wonder, when this is over, should I settle down with him permanently?

RW, Somerset

Ava says...

SEEMS to me you've got plenty to offer him, so why not.

Dear Ava,

I'VE been married for 10 years and recently found out my hubby was having an affair.

A month ago I had a phone call from my mum saying she couldn't get through to my sister – who lives just round the corner from me.

She asked me to go to check and when I arrived at the house at 10pm, all the lights were off except one in the bedroom.

We have keys to each other's houses so I crept upstairs to the bedroom, where her door was ajar and I saw two figures writhing on the bed.

And I was horrified to see that her lover was my HUSBAND!

She was groaning with pleasure and I stood and watched as they had sex in several positions – some of them were completely new to me – before I crept back out of the house.

When my treacherous husband got back about midnight, he said he had been to the pub with his mates, the bloody liar.

I don't know whether to leave him or have an affair myself.

BW, Birmingham

Ava says...

YOU'RE going to have to have it out with them both.

#MY SEX FANTASY

...WITH
SAM TYE, 28

FROM READING

'It's like they're all competing to get their sperm in me!'

THE fantasy that gets me going the most is of me being gangbanged.

I think about that scenario most of the time I orgasm!

I love the idea of being really slutty and letting guy after guy ravish me.

My fantasy starts with me kneeling on the floor and one by one sucking each guys' cock.

They are surrounding me while I multi-task and suck and jerk off as many as I can.

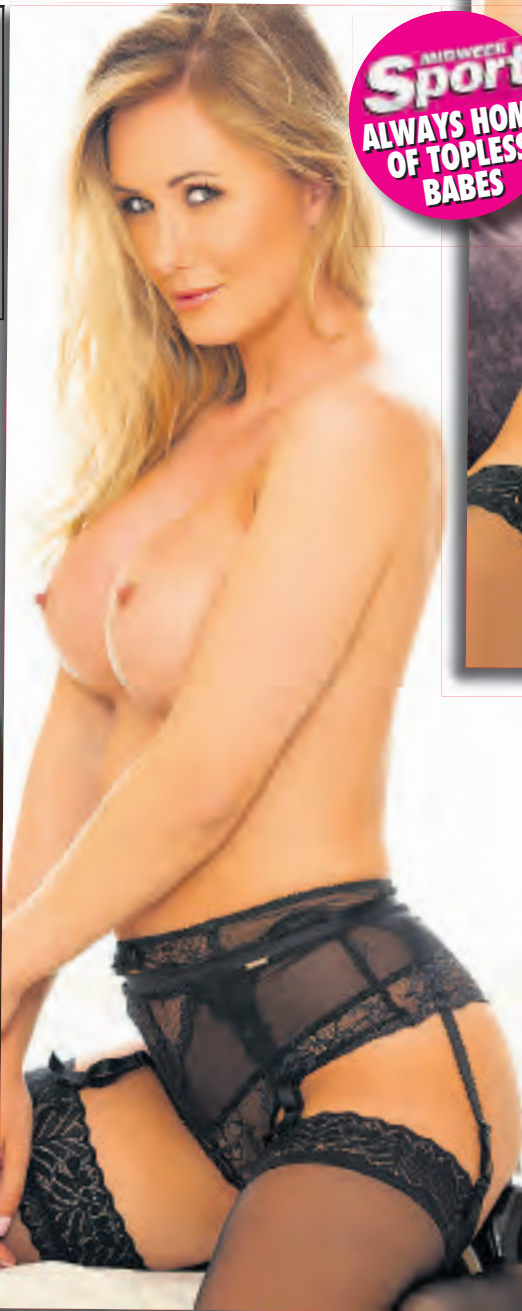

Then I'm on all fours while the blokes take it in turns to penetrate my sopping pussy and fill my hungry mouth.

I'm much more reserved in real life so it does it for me because it would be so out of character.

But I love the thought of being the centre of attention and there being so many guys clearly excited and eager to have sex with me.

In my fantasy it's like they're all competing with each other to get their sperm inside me – it's a real animal thing!

#HOT'N'HORNY

SHE'S more than enough to give any red-blooded bloke the raging horn.

But it's WOMEN who make Eve Angel purr – as the bisexual beauty craves girl-on-girl action between the sheets!

The stunning 31-year-old, who has all-natural 34C boobs, told Midweek Sport: "Of course I like having sex with men."

"But I always have stronger orgasms with women."

"I only squirt with women!"

"I think it's because a girl knows exactly what to do for another girl – how softly to lick, how to stroke the nipples, and how to use your fingers."

Pert Eve, who originally hails from Budapest in Hungary but now lives in swanky Kensington, west London, has put her money where her mouth is, too.

She's starred in X-rated lesbian flicks like Inside Peaches, No Boys Here, Just Girls, Pink Velvet: The Innocence of Lesbian Love and the classic Oof! That's A Big Dildo For Anal, Madame.

SPECIAL OFFER: ANY 3 PRIVATE SHOPS DVDs FOR £25 (was £75)

IT'S finally time to say goodbye to the creepy Crawleys of Downton Abbey and hello to the horny hotties of buxom Bottomley Manor!

For all you red-blooded fellas who love your porn but are bored to tears by dull Downton Abbey this is your lucky day.

Released last week, the UK's most highly anticipated adult movie is available exclusively through the Sport's adult partner Private Shops and, for a limited time they're offering readers another £5 OFF the already low, low price.

Down On Abby is a big budget, full length adult masterpiece starring porn legend Ben Dover and a cast of the hottest adult stars around. It will transport you to Bottomley Manor, home to the Lord Grabhem (played by Ben Dover), his wife (and 2014 AVN nominee) Jasmine Jae, and their two young promiscuous step-daughters, Abby and Fanny.

The Grabhems have invited the Stiffies to dinner and their staff, led by butler Small and footman Master Bates, hurriedly prepare to receive their honoured guests.

But during preparations some members of staff have their own ideas of how to make the night go with a bang! As dinner approaches it seems everyone's got more than fancy nosh on their minds. Mind you, there is plenty of noshing as well as lots of other filth that will even cause a crease in Carson's keks.

We see plenty of R18 DVDs at the Sport but this one is really something special and one you MUST not miss!

This future classic stars Ava Dalush as Missy, Cathy Heaven as Lucy, Emma Leigh as Betty, Jasmine Jae as Lady Wanda Grabhem, Jasmine James as Fanny Grabhem, Jess West as Lady Stiffie, Lexi Lowe as Abby Grabhem, Ben Dover as Lord Will Grabhem, Big Bad Dave as Smithers and Clarke Kent as Master Bates.

SHOW ME THE HONEY!

NATALIE CAMM

MILKMAN Nigel Phillips delivers pints in his home town of Plymouth, Devon, but there's only one girl he spills his own white stuff over.

The 48-year-old only has eyes for 27-year-old blonde bombshell Natalie Camm, from Kilburn, north London, and her massive 30F boobs.

Nigel wrote to us: "Could I have a topless picture of Natalie please?"

"It would help give me something to do after I've finished my morning deliveries!"

WELCOME to the interactive Midweek Sport – where YOU get to choose the stunnas appearing on these pages!

That's right fellas, we publish sexy snaps of the babes you most want to see – TOPLESS or even NAKED.

Every Wednesday, Show Me The Honey features the cute curves of the glamour girls you're clamouring for. This service – UNIQUE to British newspapers – is totally FREE!

All you have to do is drop us an email to request@sundaysport.co.uk telling us why you want to see your favourite girl, then sit back and let us do the rest.

JAYE ROSE

CAR mechanic Martin Abbott would love to tinker with delightful glamour girl Jaye Rose.

The 44-year-old, from Wigan, begged to see a photo of 28-year-old Jaye and her sweater-stretching 32EE boobs.

Martin's ultimate fantasy is for Edinburgh babe Jaye to let him service her engine. He said: "Jaye is my all-time favourite woman, she's got huge boobs and gorgeous red hair.

"I'd love to give her a good check-over. I'd probably have to insert my dipstick into her, just to check she's fully lubricated!"

NICOLA McLEAN

FAST food worker Ben Claydon wants to serve up his sausage on topless stunna Nicola McLean's big ole baps.

The 23-year-old serves up burgers and hotdogs, but it's 35-year-old Jess's 34GGs he really wants on his plate.

Ben, from Great Yarmouth, Norfolk, reckons Nicola, from Brentwood, Essex, is the ultimate pin-up.

He said: "If she ever pops by, she'd be welcome to lick my sausage while I fondle her baps!"

SOUNESS TRIBUTE TO MATE MICHAEL

By ANDY MILLOM

GRAEME Souness has led the tributes to former Liverpool, Brighton and Ireland striker Michael Robinson who has died at the age of 61.

The barrel-chested forward was part of the Anfield side that won the European Cup in 1984, famously beating AS Roma on their own stadium after winning the top-flight title and League Cup. He played 24 times for the Republic, scoring four goals.

He moved to Osasuna in Spain late in his career and stayed there to become one of the most popular sports TV presenters in the country.

His death from cancer was announced on his Twitter account.

Souness said: "He was a close pal of mine and I'm absolutely sick for his family. It's a sad day for me.

"My friendship started with him when he first joined Liverpool, we used to go to the Top Hat on a Thursday night for dinner, his wife and my wife as well, then obviously we became great pals at Liverpool.

Charming

"He wasn't a superstar but he more than helped us in that year we managed to do the treble, he played a big part in that, and he was good round the place, he was very popular.

"I've got so many fond memories of being in his company.

"If you were going for a night out, Michael would be the first one you'd invite, a real charming man, bon viveur and he could tell great stories.

"I can remember him phoning me up once, he'd been out to lunch with Seve Ballesteros and he was walking down the street in Madrid, half a dozen asked him for an autograph and only one asked Seve.

"He was rejoicing in that."

His fame in Spain made him a household name and that has been reflected in the tributes.

A Barcelona spokesman said: "We at FC Barcelona wish to express our deepest condolences for the passing of Michael Robinson, a person who loved football and who knew how to explain it with knowledge and ingenuity.

"He was the winner of the 2018 Vazquez Montalban Journalism Award. Rest in peace."

BIG KICK-OFF COMES CLOSER AS

FOOTY EYES JUNE 6 RETURN

Spurs back in training with other teams set to follow

PUT a big ring around Saturday, June 6 in your calendar — as that's the day footy could be back.

Premier League clubs have been holding conference calls about getting the players fit for the big kick-off.

Tottenham, Arsenal, West Ham and Brighton have all got players back at their training grounds — making sure they stick to the social distancing guidelines.

At Spurs, stars are arriving at different times and undergoing individual training sessions.

There is only one member of the squad out on each pitch as they are put through their paces by Jose Mourinho and his coaching team.

It was thought that the Premier League and other divisions might kick off on June 13 — with games being played behind closed doors.

Now it appears that date has been brought forward by a week under a new "Project Restart" plan.

There has been no official word yet but the government's culture secretary Oliver Dowden has given his support to a resumption.

He said: "I personally have been in talks with the Premier League with a view to getting football up and running as soon as possible in order to support the whole football community.

"But, of course, any such moves would have to be consistent with health guidance."

English professional football has been suspended since March 13.

Fate

Already the Scottish lower divisions have called quits on their season, while non-league football up to the National League has also abandoned the campaign. Some European leagues have also been KO'd.

This move by top clubs would appear to confirm that the same fate won't happen to the Premier, Championship plus Leagues One and Two as many pundits had feared.

But nothing is certain and the PFA have expressed concerns about the safety of players.

There will have to be extensive testing to make sure the coronavirus doesn't spread through clubs.

That won't be easy to arrange while NHS staff and key workers are still struggling to get checked.

PFA deputy chief executive Bobby Barnes said: "We have reiterated that players are not just footballers but partners, fathers, mothers, sons and daughters who share the

CULTURE MINISTER HINTS AT RESTART

WARNING: Yoshiro Mori

2021 or never for Tokyo's Olympics

ATHLETICS

THE Tokyo Olympics will be binned if they can't take place next year.

Games president Yoshiro Mori was forced to postpone this summer's games because of the coronavirus crisis.

They are scheduled to take place from July 23 to August 8, 2021.

But given that athletes have to travel from all corners of the globe, there will have to be major breakthroughs in fighting the virus for the games to happen as planned.

And Japan's medical chief Yoshi Yokokura has put a spanner in the works by saying it will be hard to host the Olympics before a vaccine or cure is found.

Many scientists think that could be optimistic even for more than a year down the road.

Mori believes there's no chance of delaying the games for a second time and moving them to 2022.

He said: "In that case, the Olympics will be scrapped."

But Mori believes everything possible will be done to host the games.

He added: "This Olympics would be much more valuable than any Olympics in the past if we could go ahead with it after winning this battle."

"We have to believe this, otherwise our hard work and efforts will not be rewarded."

Yellow card for spitting

FIFA want to ban footballers from spitting on the ground during the coronavirus crisis.

The Premier League is hoping to restart in around five weeks but it won't be business as usual for players.

There could be a yellow card for golly on the pitch.

FIFA medical chief Michel D'Hooghe wants restrictions in place for safety reasons.

He said: "Spitting is a common practice in football and it's not very hygienic."

"This is one of the reasons why we have to be very careful before we start again."

"I am not pessimistic but I am rather sceptical at the moment."

JOTA: WE'LL BE BACK!

DIOGO Jota believes the wait will soon be over for Premier League football fans. The Wolves hitman has full faith that the season will be completed with games kicking off again soon.

He said: "I believe the Premier League can finish. I know almost every country in the world has the Premier League as one of the leagues to watch so it is major that we can finish the season."

"Maybe we need to go step by step and the first step is to play behind closed doors. Anything can happen because it will be like a new season for everybody."

JUMPING FOR JOY: Diogo Jota after hitting the target for Wolves same health concerns as everyone else during this pandemic.

"We have been assured of the intentions of all that there would be no resumption unless guarantees of safety could be given to the players."

Crunch

"The overriding principle for all parties is the health and safety of all participants on and off the field and of course the wider public."

There will be a crunch meeting on Friday when Premier League club executives have their next conference call.

UEFA have asked all clubs to issue plans for the rest of the season by the end of May. That will allow Europe's governing body to announce firm dates for the coming months.

One sticking point could be the amount of travelling around the country to play at empty stadiums.

It is thought that some matches could be played at neutral venues to minimise the risk of infection.

That could cause some teams to cry foul, saying they have lost home advantage even though a crowd won't be present.

Many of these issues could be sorted out on Friday when footy fans will hope for good news and a firm date for when matches will be back — to watch on the telly at least.

Games at Wembley and Twickenham

FOOTBALL'S "Project Restart" plan could see games staged at Wembley and Twickenham.

The Football Association's training base at St George's Park in the Midlands has also been suggested as a possible venue.

That has a range of top-quality pitches and could be used to host several games on the same day.

How matches will be played is expected to be a massive talking point when Premier League clubs hold a conference call on Friday.

There are 92 games left to finish and it could be necessary to hold them at "approved venues" which are tightly locked down rather than each team's home ground.

Twickenham — the home of English rugby union — has been mooted as one such place.

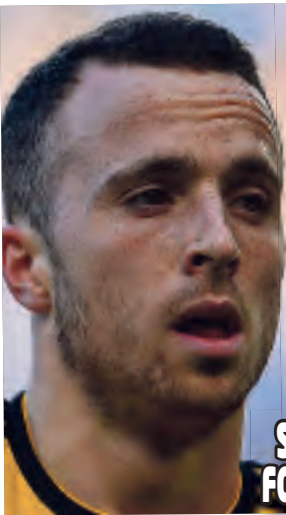

It's understood that the Premier League have made contact with the stadium's owners about using it during June and July.

While teams understandably want to play at home, there will be no crowd and there is a realisation that it won't be business as usual for a good while yet.
